GARDINER & LARSON HOMES

With over twenty years of experience in the field of building and architectural design, Judith Larson has been producing beautiful homes for clients along the eastern seaboard and up into Vermont. With attention to detail, Larson and her associates are known for producing traditional architecture, containing modern open interiors infused with natural light.

Built directly on the water in the Long Island village of Bridgehampton, this home embodies all the charm of a traditional Shingle Style home with high ceilings, a multitude of windows and "playful" elements that give this home a transitional feel. A wall of folding glass doors takes full advantage of the ocean views while "lighthouse" towers flanking the double gabled rear elevation add symmetry and a dose of nautical whimsy.

Inspired at an early age by architectural design, Larson has turned her passion for designing and building beautiful homes into a well respected career. "As principal designer, Larson believes that a well-designed home is one that has at its core, simplicity." Designing homes since 1976, Larson's firm is based in New Canaan, Connecticut and is a full service design-build firm consisting of architectural designers and architects.

JUDITH LARSON

For Judith Larson of Gardiner and Larson Homes, the interest in architectural design began at an early age. "Wooden blocks, Lincoln Logs, shoeboxes, my father's cigar boxes, you name it-I was always building and drawing with pencil, charcoal and ink" says Larson. Designing homes since 1991, Larson's firm is based in New Canaan, Connecticut and is a full service design-build firm consisting of architectural designers and architects. As principal designer, Larson believes that "a well-designed home is one that has at its core, simplicity". Equating choosing a favorite house style to choosing a favorite child, she believes the design process is "an intimate and creative partnership" between client and designer. When asked what type of home she'd like to design, she responds "one that welcomes and connects us with our inner selves and one which comforts us". That is she believes, "the kind of home that is truly timeless".
